BAND CONCERT IS GOING OVER BIG!

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these," etc., truly seems to be the way in which the big Children's Welfare Concert tomorrow (Thursday) evening in the theatre is "going over."

The Band Boys are all tooted up; the W.I. members are all ready with their ends; and the church organizations are just waiting to lend their promised aid; so that Wainwright's first annual welfare concert shall be a regular maker of history.

Of course, you have procured your ticket for the big affair; but even so you should leave it home by mistake, another fifty cents at the door will admit you, but one thing we wish to impress is, that all attendants should be at the doors early as the ticket sale has been such as to prove that the people of the town and district are behind the band boys in this thing just 100 per cent. The name of every ticket holder is known to them, but that will not prevent anyone from "losing" their ticket and buying another admission—in fact several are arranging to do just that—and even at that they will each receive much more than their dollar's worth in the grand concert, not to mention the splendid supper and the dance which follows!

At this time of the year, too, every supporter of this most worthy movement will assuredly feel that they are at least doing their bit to—

ARCHBISHOP O'LEARY OPENS NEW COVENT

On Thursday last the new convent building of the Sisters of St. Joseph, erection of which has just been completed on Ninth avenue, was opened according to the rites and ceremonies of the Catholic church by His Grace the Right Reverend O'Leary, archbishop of the Edmonton diocese.

In these services which took place in the chapel at the convent, he was assisted by Rev. Father H. Doyle, and other priests, before a large congregation of members of the church and others, the musical portions of the ceremony being given by a choir of young girls under the direction of one of the sisters.

At the close of the religious offices all and sundry were invited to inspect this new seat of learning, and practically everyone took advantage of the offer to see the spacious schoolrooms and dormitories, etc., this being followed by afternoon tea which was daintily served in one of the high-school classrooms by the ladies of the C.W.L. with a number of willing girl helpers. Later in the day the archbishop returned to Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brunner motored to the city last week.

Another old-time landmark, the green shack on Main street on the site of the new Catholic church, has been moved to the rear of Father Doyle's home on Ninth avenue.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGES FROM THE CHURCHES

St. Thomas' Ang. Church

(By Rev. C. N. Bateman, vicar.)

WHAT DOES CHRISTMAS MEAN TO YOU?

To the child it means a night of expectancy and a morning of surprises—a day when there is a little extra indulgence in those things so dear to the child. When perhaps the home discipline is somewhat relaxed. A day of receiving gifts. A day of joy.

To the man away from home it is the Day when he thinks of the home folks, the home table and all its associations.

To the business man as a business man Christmas means the laying in of such a stock of goods as will please the public taste. But to these and all others it surely means much more; for when we celebrate the Incarnation of Our Lord Jesus Christ no mere sentiment must have first place but a thoughtful understanding of the meaning of that Incarnation to the world. The Christmas message must carry us back to those dark ages fast receding into oblivion and remind us of the purpose of this stupendous Act of God.

The deepest need of the Human Race, felt in all ages is that God and man should be united. In our superficial moods perhaps this is forgotten and unfelt, but in days like ours when we are face to face with serious realities—when the sense of helplessness and despair is upon us—when we feel powerless to conquer self and selfishness—then God becomes an imperative necessity and man feels the need of union with Him.

Various religions have tried to secure this union by raising man to the level of their conceptions of Deity. In Paganism we find National Heroes deified, lifted up, worshipped and adored. Other religions have reversed the process and tried to bring God down to the level of man. In the religions of India many a local ascetic has been regarded as a manifestation of the Divine, and these local incarnations have deified, bringing God to level of man. Incarnation has been a simple and transitory thing likely to be repeated over again in many and varied forms.

These all fail to secure man's union with God because the Divine must always remain Divine and the Human must always remain Human. The Christian religion declares that God is the Sublime Perfection of Person—

Blessed Sacrament Church

(By Rev. Father Doyle, P.P.)

May Christmas with its power, its beauty and its awe, bring into your heart and soul a new abundance of the peace, the happiness and the joy that filled the heart of Our Lady so many years ago in the bleak cold stable of Bethlehem and may the new-born Saviour, whose Birth caused rejoicing in Heaven, on earth and beneath the earth, shower His choicest blessings, spiritual and temporal upon you and upon those near and dear to you.

As the scene of Bethlehem enacts itself again in our memory or as we view the tableau presented by the Christmas crib, a new peace will fill our soul, a new strength and confidence will be ours and we shall experience consolation and encouragement we have never known if we impress deeply upon our minds and our hearts the outstanding facts regarding the Nativity of Our Lord, the world's greatest event.

God is born into this world to save man who had insulted and outraged Him by sin. Adam, though finite, committed an infinite offense against His Maker, and lost in the doing, the three-fold gift of power, knowledge and perfect control in his senses, to which in the first place he had no right. Adam was like the servant of the rich man who gave his hired man the privilege of living in his house, using his food and servants, providing he did not touch a certain painting in the library. Suppose now that the servant did touch this painting—would the master of the house do him an injustice by turning him out? No, because he had no right to be there in the first place. The same is true of Adam.

The fall of Adam caused the greatest problem this world has ever known. How could man be restored to the divine favour? How could finite man pay an infinite debt? And so the problem. The redeemer would have to be a man because it was man who had offended God and the redeemer would have to be divine so as to make a worthy reparation to an offended Deity.

So Jesus the Son of God, came down from the glory of heaven, from the unalloyed happiness He always experienced in His Father and the Holy Ghost to suffer the pangs of hunger, the inclemencies of the weather and worst of all, the forget—

DECEMBER 26 AND JANUARY 2 ARE STATUTORY HOLIDAYS

Monday, December 26, and Monday, January 2, are statutory and public holidays and will be observed as such in Wainwright.

The law provides that when Christmas Day and New Year's Day falls on Sunday, the Monday following must be observed as a holiday. The post office, stores and elevators will be closed on the days in question.

ONLY FOUR MORE DAYS

And here is the end of the Christmas shopping days for 1932! Just four more days this week! Our Wainwright merchants have made a special effort through their advertisements as well as in their stores to suggest those things in the gift-solving problem that will be practical and useful, as well as handsome and dainty. The shops are dressed in Yuletide attire, and a visit to any of them will prove interesting and profitable.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mabel Gertrude Bowen, who died on Tuesday, December 24th, 1929. Aged 22 years, 9 months.

Here let me wait with patience,
Wait till the night is o'er;
Wait till I see the morning
Break on the Golden Shore.

Father, Mother, and Brothers.

SANTA'S PREDICAMENT

I've heard it's very cold up north where good old Santa lives;
I always thought he made the toys and all the things he gives;
I never in my life supposed that he was like my Dad
And grew a lot of wheat to pay for all the things I've had;
But Santa does depend on wheat, in spite of all the cold,
And I must not expect too much, for Santa Claus is old.
I learned all this the other day when I wrote down the things I wanted Santa Claus to bring:—A necklace and some rings,
A talking doll, some roller skates, a car that's just my size,
A lot of games, a Teddy bear, an aeroplane that flies.
When Daddy saw the list I'd made he said, 'Good Gracious, Honey! How can old Santa buy all that, with two-bit wheat for money!'

United Church of Canada

(By Rev. W. J. Huston, pastor.)

The Christmas Message is above all else a message of love. It might be stated briefly in the following word from Scripture, "God loved us and sent His Son" and "If God so loved us we ought also to love one another."

From the beginning of the human race, we think of the Eternal Love as an All-Wise and an All-gracious Father seeking to share His character with His children. Through many noble souls He was able to reveal glimpses of His character and His purpose for mankind, but in Jesus this was supremely possible. An early Christian writer, who had been a strict Jew and who was no mean scholar in his day wrote, "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself." Today more than ever before the world bows at the manger-cradle in Bethlehem and thanks God for His "Unspeakable Gift." God's love toward the world is an unchanging love. Throughout the centuries mankind has too largely rejected it and the way of life that the Saviour lived and taught. As a result we find the world in a sorry state today. But there is at least one bright day wherever Christ is known and that is Christmas Day. It is because so many have learned to practise love and brotherhood at this season in the spirit of Him, whose birthday we celebrate. Surely we can see it. This spirit is what is needed every day, in every life, in all our institutions and relationships throughout the whole, wide world.

To really grasp the Christmas message we need to accept the love of God for ourselves and believe that His love includes all mankind. "I say to thee. Do thou repeat To the first man thou mayest meet In lane, highway or open street, That he and thee and all men move Under a canopy of love As broad as the blue sky above. And ere thou leave him, say thou this. They only miss the final bliss Who will not count it true, that love, Blessing, not cursing, rules above And that in it we live and move."

Then, inspired by the love of God to us, we need to cultivate the will to create fellowship and true brotherhood among all our fellow men three hundred and sixty five days in the year.

St. Andrew's Pres. Church

(By Rev. W. E. Brooker, pastor.)

Dear Friends:—Another twelve months is nearly passed, with all its sorrows, joys, losses and gains. The year has been a most trying time for all, but things could have been worse. People are going through a testing time of having to do without luxuries, and only getting things that are needful for health of body, mind, and soul. It is wonderful how little a person can live on, if they cut out many of the unnecessary things that they have got into the habit of indulging in. The Christmas season is the time when every person, young or old, would do well, if they carried out the Bible instructions, given by St. Paul, and Nehemiah. St. Paul said, "Keep unguilty body and bring it unto subjection." 1 Cor. 9:27. Nehemiah said, to the people who were passing through a time of great distress, "Send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto the Lord; neither be ye sorry; for the joy of the Lord is your strength." Nehemiah 8:10. And what the world that, "God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16. And that, "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinful men from their sins." Timothy 1:15.

That is the purpose for which Christ the Lord came into the world, and thus instituted the holy Christmas time. A season of joy and gladness, a forecast of eternal Peace, when the Lord's people shall be free from the Pride of life, the lust of the eyes, and of the flesh. These three things, are the cause of all sin, disease, suffering, envy and strife, which destroys peace and happiness, and the health of body, mind and soul. God has been very merciful and gracious unto us as a church and congregation in that he has supplied all our needs, and given us enough to pay all our expenses and a little over. This has been brought about by the splendid cooperation and Christian fellowship of the faithful few, who have been dominated by the spirit of our Blessed Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, the King of Peace and Glory. I thank every person of our congregation, Sunday school, and Ladies Aid, who have helped to make this one of the most successful years of the Lord's

GOODWILL TO ALL MEN

A day, a year, a lifetime—it is one. Wisfully we look over our shoulders toward the sweet freshness of morning. Then we were strong; then we were gay; then the magic of dawn was still upon us. Dauntless—princely in our pride—we leaved toll on heaven and earth for our enjoyment. We were happy children! For us the sun rose and the stars sparkled. For us the sky was blue and a myriad flowers bloomed in the meadow. For us the birds sang, the wind, and the sea. Life was all color and song and to us it was very good. Twilight deepening, we turned our faces homeward, where mother and love waited, to soothe us to dreamless sleep.

Children are creatures of love and love is limitless, without beginning and without end. Its unalterable spirit descends in benediction, with each setting of the sun only to rise again with glorious Te Deum in the morning. Love and childhood, which is its first expression, ever call us to renew our strength and recreate our souls.

So it is that this season, symbolized by the Holy Child, comes at close of the year. Light withdrawn and all growth in rest, our hearts search for the peace that was ours in the beginning. We must find it again so that we may go blithely through the year, quitting ourselves as men of high courage and wisdom. Laughter and love, these are life, and these are Christmas. Within their universal spirit the tiniest toy, the smallest sprig of holly, takes on mystic and joyous meaning.

Let us keep this season gayly. Let us serve notice on the grim facts that have tyrannized over us all year that they shall do so no more. For this great occasion we will pull ourselves up over the brim of sense and look beyond into the reality where wonders abound.

Here dreams come true at the wave of the hand. Rainbows become sturdy bridges. Wishes come like gifts from Aladdin's lamp. Fairy godmothers take on the forms of enchantment and Santa is everywhere. Smiles are coins of the real. Life becomes much. In this delectable state Time halts in his stride and old age takes on sudden youth. Childhood fresh and sweet, untouched by grief, unconscious of care, alight and alive with love, rules supreme throughout the world.

Immortal hope lies in the limitless horizon of this holiday. It is then we know that our woe is unnecessary. One peep over the rim, one look beyond this world of unreality, and the whole fabric of life changes into the scarlet and snow of Christmas. Away goes worry and care. Joy enfolds us and we sing the songs of Christmas—long-ago.

Cease feeling burdened; cease feeling responsible. Lean upon love—limitless, eternal love. Fest Christmas. It is the deepest, the dearest, the noblest emotion men may know. It is another word for "love". Then hail Merry Christmas, the spirit of our childhood, the spirit of peace on earth and goodwill toward all men!

THE EDITOR

THE REAL MEANING OF CHRISTMAS

Christmas day is a commemoration rather than an anniversary and like other commemorations may mean somewhat different things to different people.

To some it is the festival of what might be called social charity; that is to say, an occasion for endeavoring to increase the world's capital of good-will which is not perhaps unduly large. This was the aspect which appealed to Charles Dickens and has been immortalized by him in the Christmas Carol, a work which certainly deserves to rank as an English classic. And as far as it goes, this view of Christmas is Christian. It may not amount to very much, but it is at least worth something.

Others see in Christmas the festival of childhood. The Infant Jesus has inspired many pictures and some poetry. This sentiment is also Christian as far as it goes. One of the great difficulties which the Christian religion has made is that it has created a new attitude toward children. It has made parents the natural protectors instead of the owners of them. In the old world the exposure of infants was a very common thing (as it is said to be in China today) and was not regarded as in the least reprehensible.

But both these views are only superficial. Neither the idea of social charity nor the claim of helpless infancy exhausts the meaning of the day. Christmas is—it is almost a platitude to say so—the festival of the Incarnation. It commemorates the fact that "The word was made flesh"; that is to say, that God has really entered once for all into human life. For centuries before, man had been learning to think of God as acting in or upon the world. In heathen thought divine intervention in human affairs was fitful, capricious and arbitrary. It was sometimes inspired by motives which could not be defended. Possibly this was in part an outcome of polytheism; that is, of belief in a number of divine personages of approximately equal power whose wills were often in conflict. But whatever the limitations within it took place, it was real intervention. Except in the philosophy of Epicurus, which was next door to atheism, pagan divinities did not neglect this world, but they acted upon it from outside.

Hebrew teachers went deeper. In their speculative range was narrow their insight was more profound. They believed in one God only, whose intervention in human affairs was continuous and not arbitrary. It was ality and that God has created man in His Own Image and then given to man a revelation of His own perfection. Thus Jesus Christ is the answer to the question "What is God Like?"—the Word was made Flesh and dwelt among us and we beheld His Glory. This great act of God which we call the Incarnation was "for us men" as well as "for our Salvation" as we say in the Apostles Creed. It was the Enhancement and Re-inforcement of Man by God. Not by "the conversion of the Godhead into Flesh but by taking of the Manhood into God".

Christmas Messages From The Churches

From St. Thomas' Anglican Church

This then is the Christmas message, The Eternal Union of man with God in Jesus Christ. This was the message given in the fulness of time, when the world was passing through its darkest hour. This is the Message of encouragement and hope for these dark days. All our efforts for the amelioration of social ills, all our most prized possessions, our Home and Family Life, all we hold most dear has been given to us as the result and fruit of Humanity. Union with God by the Incarnation. Can we wonder then that when we repeat "And was Incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary and Made Man" we feel humbly bound to bow our heads in Adoration and Thanksgiving to God for "His Un-speakable Gift".

"Let Us go even unto Bethlehem" and Adore Him.

fulness and ingratitude of men. But it was one thing to redeem men, but it was quite another to apply his redemption to their own souls. It was one thing to pay their debt and open heaven to them, but it was quite another to have them enter therein. However He left us definite instructions and these we must follow.

Remember the song of the angels—Peace on earth to men of GOOD-WILL. The peace then of this world is a conditional promise—it depends on our good will. May that good will of which the angels spoke be ever our guiding principle in our relations with both God and our fellow men.

This is the blessing that I wish you all—a merry Christmas and a happy and holy New Year.

work, in the history of this church and congregation. May the God of all Peace and real Christian happiness, give you His peace, which passeth all understanding. Through his glorious Son Jesus Christ, our Lord and Redeemer, who loved us, and made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to Him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen. Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced Him; and all kindreds of the earth shall wall because of Him. Even so. Amen. I am Alpha and Omega the beginning and the ending, said the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty. Revelations 1:5, 6.

Wishing you every Christmas blessing from God the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

Miss M. White arrived from Calgary on Monday evening to spend Christmas holidays with Mrs. W. Clark. This lady is a niece of Mr. Clark and is enroute to continue her variety studies at Oxford, England.

At a regular meeting of the Adeline Rebekah lodge last Thursday evening it was full proven that "Secrets can be kept", for on that evening a number of the "boys" of the Odd Fellows lodge in town sprung quite a surprise by arranging a get-together supper and cards for those in attendance. Following this the charter members in the persons of sisters F. Laird and B. Davison were presented with 15-year jewels.

for next year, one spends a portion of one's evenings in rereading for the hundredth time the Vilmorin catalogues. I must disclaim any intention of writing a gratuitous advertisement; but it is so happens that Madame de Vilmorin is a European personage in the news.

Rarely is a woman raised to the high rank of Commander of the Legion of Honor. That distinction has just been conferred upon the woman who is at the head of the most important firm producing plants and seeds in the country. She has carried on the business with remarkable efficiency, employing many thousands of workers, and cultivating tens of thousands of acres of land. She personally goes to the ends of the earth to study the raising of flowers and vegetables and trees and their amelioration.

The French Government makes use of her knowledge and experience in the colonies; for she is one of the most ardent and the most practical advocates of colonial improvement and progress. Those who cause two blades of grass to grow where one had grown, who bring plants to perfection, and who add to the beauty of the world, are perhaps performing a greater work than many who are more prominently in the public eye. Certainly Madame de Vilmorin can be regarded as one of the most notable women of France.

The resignation of Mr. August Zaleski, the Foreign Minister of Poland, did not come as a surprise, but it was received, especially in League of Nations circles, with regret. His familiar, somewhat boyish face was always welcome; he was calm in times of provocation, courteous in moments of stress, and skillful in those diplomatic arrangements which the peculiar situation of his country demanded.

Why do we hear so many generalizations about people? The Poles are represented as highly inflammable; but certainly their representative possessed unusual sang-froid. There have been many occasions in the past few years on which the question of minorities and the relations of Poland with Germany might have furnished pretexts for angry outbursts; Mr. Zaleski behaved tactfully and without passion though he usually successfully defended his cause.

Recently he obtained the reelection of Poland to a seat on the Council. But his long absences at Geneva apparently undermined his position at Warsaw. His Under-secretary, Col. Joseph Beck—belonging to the group of Colonels who are so powerful in Poland—became more and more the confidant of Marshal Pilsudski.

There was a tendency to establish two foreign policies; and particularly has the question of an accord with Russia caused dissension. It is denied that this is the reason for Mr. Zaleski's resignation. He pleads

PERSONAGE

A good deal of sympathy will be felt for Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in his decision to cancel all extra-Parliamentary engagements, and even to absent himself from the annual Lord Mayor's banquet in London at which the Prime Minister traditionally appears.

But the fact of the matter is that not only Mr. MacDonald, but all leading ministers in Europe, have overworked themselves since the World War. There was never a time when the burden of office was so great. A British writer recently observed: "The stress of world events falls severely upon a leader whose power is held in trust for the majority of the country's adult population.... The task of England's First Minister is truly majestic."

Mr. MacDonald must necessarily travel a good deal; and after strenuous labors is not free even to repose in the train. There is a batch of cabinet papers, reports, drafts, to read and to comment. There are innumerable consultations with different ministers, delegations, diplomats. There is the need of actual physical presence in the House of Commons.

There is, above all, perpetual responsibility—decisions, which may be vital, to take about unemployment, tariffs, finances—concentration on international problems, such as debts, disarmament, economics. There are many persons who are beginning to ask whether it is fair to saddle one man with the tremendous weight of internal and external duties, in a complicated world where everything is in flux.

It is true there are the departmental ministers; and it is felt that they should be allowed to work more or less independently and the Prime Minister be relieved of many cares. One man, one job, would not be a bad motto in all the European countries—to say nothing of America—with the acting head of the state merely exercising a general control.

When We Were All Much Younger

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Dec. 18, 1912

Conservatives from practically all parts of Wainwright district assembled here Friday evening to attend a reorganization meeting and election of the officers for the local association. The meeting was addressed by several prominent politicians. After the dinner of buffalo steak, the meeting took the form of a smoker at which the speakers were heard.

The Agricultural society at a recent meeting elected Mr. A. McLean as president, Thomas Sheridan as vice-president, and re-elected secretary Bowerman for another year.

The Elite Theatre was opened Tuesday evening, when about 75 couples attended a big dance. The music was played by the newly organized Wainwright Orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Monday at the Methodist Church. A nice dinner was served, and their grand daughter, Miss Mary Martin sang "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet." Miss Instead (Mrs. Nellie Huntingford) sang a solo, "I've grown so used to you now."

Mr. P. W. Deverson, manager of the Wainwright Lumber Co., has been busily engaged for the past week or more moving his stock of lumber from the premises on Third avenue to the lots opposite Mr. W. S. Goulet's blacksmith shop.

It is reported in business circles in the town that Mr. M. L. Forster has sold out his interests in the Killarney Hotel at Chauvin to Messrs. Bulman Bros., the former managers.

Mrs. G. H. Beaudry, accompanied by her little daughter, Claire, is visiting at the home of her father, Mr. N. P. Tanguay of Sherbrooke.

TEN YEARS AGO
Dec. 20, 1922

A sad occurrence took place on Thursday morning when Mr. Edwin Coleman received a shot in the head from a .38 revolver. He died from the shot on Monday morning. The deceased was in his bakery when the affair occurred. It is presumed that he was handling the firearm which by some means went off, the bullet entering his head. Dr. Wallace was called immediately and rendered all the aid possible, and then rushed the man to the Royal Alexandra hospital. The deceased was 24 years old.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. D. Weibe was taken suddenly ill while at his work last week, and has been confined to the bed since.

Mr. Fred Gordon is having a show window built in his tobacco store.

Mrs. D. Middlemass is spending a few days in the city with friends.

Mr. T. Bison has been busy for a couple of weeks on the installation of Delco electric plant at the Buffalo park.

We are glad to learn that Mr. E. (Bud) Cotton, who recently broke a couple of ribs in a scrape with a buffalo, is getting along fine.

For the purpose of specialist treatment for leg trouble, Mr. Quan Hall of the Alberta Restaurant has left for Calgary.

We are glad to note that Mr. Jack Veitch has so far recovered from his recent accident to his two hands, that he is around again as lively as ever. Can't keep a good man down.

O.E.S. CELEBRATES 21ST ANNIVERSARY

Celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the local O.E.S. chapter and election of officers for the coming year made the Eastern Star meeting Wednesday evening an especially memorable one. The new officers, elective and appointive, will be installed at the January meeting and the names will be announced at that time.

In commemoration of the twenty-first anniversary, the chapter's retiring officers presented to the chapter a scroll celebrating the event. The anniversary was fittingly celebrated at a banquet and social hour following the business meeting. The entertainment committee was in charge of arrangements.

Star colors were used to decorate the room for the banquet, at which about 30 persons were guests. Mr. Chipston served as toastmaster for the program following the banquet. Speakers included Mr. Lally, Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. Washburn. Mrs. Lally, worthy matron, was unable to take her place on the program because of an attack of laryngitis.

SOME SEASONABLE "DON'T'S"

- Don't use candles on Christmas trees.
- Don't place the tree near open lights.
- Don't set the tree upon flimsy supports.
- Don't operate electric toys under a tree, or near cotton, paper or other inflammable material.
- Don't use a rickety step-ladder in decorating trees or hanging wreaths or decorations.
- Don't permit old Santa to get too close to fire. Whiskers, cotton trimmings, etc., are highly inflammable.
- Don't leave a lighted tree unwatched, especially if children are near.
- Don't use cotton beneath the tree to get a snow-covered effect.
- Don't keep the tree around the house after the holidays. When they dry up they become highly inflammable.

W.M.S. Elects Year's Officers

A very successful year, in spite of the many difficulties, was reported at the year's closing meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the United Church Tuesday afternoon of last week. The retiring officers were all re-elected: Mrs. Cousler, president; Mrs. Hackett, vice-president; Mrs. Thomas, secretary; Mrs. Washburn, treasurer; Mrs. Huston, secretary of Christian stewardship and finance; Mrs. Lyle, strangers' secretary; Mrs. Bowen, Missionary Monthly secretary; Mrs. Turner, supplies secretary.

Plans were also made for a meeting early in the new year at which a welcome will be extended to the Girls' Circle, organized in October. An affiliation ceremony is planned.

Girls' Softball Club Gave Dance

A fair attendance was reported at the Charity ball given at the Masonic Hall Thursday evening by the Girls' Softball club. Music for the affair was provided by the Merriettes. Specialty dances were given by Noreen Glass and Mr. Grant. The holder of the lucky door ticket was Mr. Schlitt.

WAINWRIGHT OLD-TIMER MEETS UNTIMELY DEATH

On Tuesday last, in the C.N. yards at Edson, Harry Summers, an engineer, met death suddenly when in getting down from his engine he stepped into the path of a snow-plough and was cut to pieces.

He will be remembered by many readers as one of Wainwright's old-timers. He worked out of the yards here in the early days, later being transferred to the mountain division. He leaves a widow and two children, as well as a number of brothers and sisters.

LOCAL RESIDENT IS BEREAVED BY ACCIDENT

A despatch from Calgary says that when reaching to turn around a small electric heater while having a bath, Miss Gladys Parsons, 20-year-old school student, was electrocuted in the home of friends here late Saturday night. Death was declared accidental and no inquest will be held.

Investigation Sunday revealed the heater was defective and that 110 volts was sent through the girl's body as she touched it while sitting in the water. Ordinarily, investigators said 110 volts was insufficient to cause death, but the water provided a perfect grounding for the current and instant death resulted.

The body was discovered by other residents of the house who heard the splash of water as the girl fell back after the current passed through her body.

Miss Parsons was a student at a business college here and her home was at Holden, Alta. She was born in Edmonton. She was living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Henderson in Calgary, where the accident occurred.

The remains were brought to Holden where the funeral was conducted on Wednesday last by Rev. W. Huston, of Wainwright.

Mrs. W. Symes, of Auburndale, journeyed to Holden for the funeral, the deceased being her niece, and the sympathies of a large circle of friends will go out to this lady in her bereavement.

PRESBYTERIAN S.S. CONCERT ON FRIDAY

The annual Christmas concert will be given Friday evening, Dec. 22, by the Sunday school of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock. Readings, songs and dialogues by the Sunday school children will make up the program. Treats will be given out.

Girl Guides Entertain Mothers

A program of readings, recitations, music and plays was the entertainment put on by the Girl Guides Tuesday evening of last week when they honored their mothers at a meeting at the I.O.O.F. hall. About 25 mothers were guests at the occasion. Mrs. Alexander, former captain of the group, was also a guest.

Following the program, a dainty lunch was served by the young hostesses, and the Christmas tree was enjoyed. The girls had changed names and the gifts were distributed from the tree. Miss Kathleen Hart, captain of the group, was in charge. Much credit for the success of the program must also be given to Mrs. Tory and Miss Taylor who assisted in training the girls.

Edgerton Ripples

By Rev. W. Bainbridge

Edgerton United Church Service—(Rev. W. Bainbridge, Minister.)—Sunday Dec. 25th—Special Christmas Day Services. 11:15 a.m., Rosemary School house; 7:30 p.m., Edgerton. Special music at these services. Everybody cordially invited.

The mild weather of the past week has been very much enjoyed by everybody. Long may it reign.

Mrs. Hallett left last Thursday for Vancouver and Victoria to visit with friends. She expects to be away for several weeks, and we hope that she will have a very enjoyable time.

A large crowd filled the Pawsey hall on Friday night to witness the staging of the W.A. play "I'll explain everything". The situation which developed during the play certainly looked as though it would take a lot of explaining, but "All well that ends well".

Christmas entertainments will be the chief source of interest for the people of this district during the next few days. The writer finds by his diary that he has promised to attend no less than five in the last four days of this week. Strenuous, but very interesting.

Curling is now in full swing. If you are interested in this fine pastime, see our worthy secretary, Mr. Chapin, and he will be glad to receive you of $7.50 and tell you as to who is your skipper.

Large congregations greeted the pastor at the appointments last Sunday. Christmas services were held at Bloomington and Rosedale and were enjoyed by all concerned.

ROBERT RADMORE DIED DECEMBER 13

Robert Radmore, well-known resident of the Auburndale district, died Tuesday, Dec. 13, at the Vermilion hospital. Funeral services were held Friday at the Anglican church in Vermilion, Canon G. McComas reading the burial service.

Mr. Radmore is survived by two sons, Gordon and William, one daughter, Mrs. J. Hilton, and two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Davis and Miss G. Radmore, all of the Auburndale district. The sincere sympathy of the entire district is extended to them in their bereavement.

SUNDAY SCHOOL AT U.C. HAD PROGRAM

A Christmas program, a white gift service, and a visit from Santa Claus made up the list of events at the Christmas concert presented by the Sunday School of the United Church Friday evening before an audience which packed the church.

A large number of contributions toward a happier Christmas for the poor in Wainwright were made by the Sunday school children at the "white gift" service which preceded the regular program. Recitations and group numbers by the beginners and juniors were then followed by a pageant of the Christmas story, under the direction of Mrs. Armstrong. A visit from a generous Santa Claus who gave out sacks of candy and nuts to the children was the grand finale.

FEAST OF LIGHTS

The oldest name for Christmas is "The Feast of Lights"—a reference to the glory in the heavens when angels sang their song announcing Christ's birth to the shepherds. It is of interest to note that the Chinese, in their astronomical records, entered an account of a new and travelling star, which appeared a few months after Christ was born. Thus the Biblical story of the Wise Men being guided by a star has outside corroboration.

HENRI BAMELIS, 85, DIED AT YPRES

Word was received Saturday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Jules Bamelis of the death of the former's father, Henri Bamelis, at his home at Ypres, Belgium, at the age of 85 years. He had been ill only a few days. He was a resident of Wainwright for a number of years and has many friends in this vicinity.

Mr. Bamelis and family had a double shock and disappointment at the news, for they had planned to leave Saturday night for the Old Country to spend Christmas and New Year's with the elder Mr. Bamelis. They were unable to make the trip last year and counted heavily on seeing their father this Christmas. They received the notice of his death only a few hours before they had planned to leave Wainwright.

Sydenham Says

By John Moore

Mr. Brassard and Mr. Croteau were in Edmonton over the week-end on business.

A whist drive and dance was held at Sydenham school last Friday. There was a good attendance, ten tables of whist being played. The honors went to: Mrs. Woods, ladies first; Sidney Woodward, men's first; Mrs. C. Alexander, ladies second; John Keen, men's second.

If Austin Kinghorn thinks that his snow bug will go everywhere, I don't. He wanted me to go for a ride in it so we set out. We stopped three times in a mile, owing to something or other blocking up, and when we turned around to come home the front runner fell to pieces, so I had to walk home. He will have to build something better before he can convince me that it will go everywhere.

Don't forget the Sydenham concert on Thursday Dec. 22. There will be a dance afterwards.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Stadsberg is in the hospital. We wish her speedy recovery.

Mr. Kinghorn is contemplating pelting several of his foxes soon.

Betty Cardell was the guest of Kathleen Kinghorn last week-end.

Unfortunately for the correspondent but fortunately for the kids, the Sydenham school examinations marks are not available. They will, however, be in next week.

Two more martyrs were formed when Austin Kinghorn and John Moore visited Jack Gregson last Sunday. After his "infamous" cooking, we felt decidedly sick Monday morning.

Gilt Edge Echoes

By Miss I. Plaxton

Gilt Edge Service (English Church) —Services next Sunday at 3 p.m. and every other Sunday at 3 p.m.

A card party and dance was held at the Gilt Edge park last Friday evening, and a very enjoyable time was had by all. Prizes were won by the following: Ladies first, Mrs. A. E. Kitchen; ladies second, Miss Isabelle LaFrance; gentlemen's first, Ideal LaFrance; gentlemen's second, Roland LaFrance. On Monday several people gathered and put up a barn for the card parties and dances. It has been decided that a dance and card party will be held every second week. The next meeting will be Friday, Dec. 30.

While we are blowing our noses With the thought of that germ in mind.

Everyone's wishing to dodge him Yet everyone's wishing to find; Exams are coming this week. It'd be a load off one's mind. But Conscience tells us we'd better All appear on the days, And cheat the Flu if possible In all possible kinds of ways.

ONE YEAR SPENT IN THE MAKING OF "SKY DEVILS"

MORE THAN HALF MILLION DOLLARS ALSO PUT INTO HUGHES COMEDY

A picture that took a year in the making and cost more than a half million dollars is "Sky Devils" which Howard Hughes, who made the famous spectacle, "Hell's Angels", is offering as the first comedy of the air for the Christmas feature at the local theatre this week.

"Sky Devils" is a lightning-fast comedy, based on the thrilling and romantic adventures of three American aviators during the World War. This is Producer Hughes' first comedy production since "Two Arabian Knights", a box-office sensation of four years ago. "Sky Devils" contains more laughs than the doughboy opus, and in addition, is full of air scenes as spectacular as the most thrilling moments in "Hell's Angels".

An air-fleet of 55 planes was used in filming the sensational flying scenes in "Sky Devils", and in one sequence alone 50 ships are shown in thrilling combat above the clouds.

It is an audacious tale of three flying clowns who violate every rule of war to have a good time, and in the face of court-martial for disobedience accomplish so many rare and accidental feats of gallantry they are decorated for their impertinent exploits.

The story of "Sky Devils", which comes to the Elite Theatre on Thurs. Fri. and Sat. has many unusual twists, and the dialogue sparkles with humor. It moves at a terrific tempo, from start to finish, and pleases laugh upon laugh, and thrill upon thrill, as the action unrolls on the screen.

Clear Lake Waves

By Mrs. W. J. Bartlett

Mrs. Edith Bartlett of Artland, Sask., was the guest of Mrs. J. Bartlett Sr. of Arm Lake. She was accompanied by her three children, Phoebe, Margaret and Buddy.

Miss G. Hough of Clear Lake who has been in bed with a severe attack of the flu has recovered somewhat.

Mr. Norman Scott of Artland, Sask., motored to Arm Lake this week.

The Arm Lake school has been decorated with Christmas garlands and window curtains for the concert that is to be held there Wednesday, Dec. 21. There is to be a good program, and we expect a good crowd and a good time.

The district received an unpleasant shock when the news of the death of a well-known resident, Mr. Robert Radmore, was received. Mr. Radmore died in the Vermilion hospital Tuesday, Dec. 13, and was buried from the Anglican church in Vermilion Friday. Canon G. McComas read the burial service. Mr. Radmore is survived by two sons, Gordon and William, a daughter, Mrs. J. Hillton, and two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Davis and Miss G. Radmore, all of this district. The sympathy of all their friends is extended to the bereaved relatives in their great sorrow.

The Christmas entertainment of Paradise Valley school was held Saturday evening, Dec. 17, and was enjoyed by a large crowd. The singing was accompanied by Miss Ruth Seale. Special features were a Healtu Drill entirely original, the words having been composed by one of the pupils, and the actions arranged by the teacher, Miss Ewart; five scenes from Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew", presented by the senior students; and an operetta portraying the "Capture of Santa Claus", by the whole school. The schoolroom was appropriately decorated, and the spirit of Christmas prevailed everywhere. Miss Ewart is to be congratulated on the splendid program she sponsored.

Mr. Frank Eyben met with a near accident last week when a light truck ran into him on the Fabyan hill. The other truck was damaged, but Mr. Eyben escaped injury. No one was hurt.

Many of our people have received an unwelcome present of the flu germ and would be quite willing to give it away again, judging from remarks heard during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Headon of Fabyan left Sunday, Dec. 11 for England to spend the Christmas holidays.

Patrons of the elevators here are asked to note the following holidays: The Alberta Pool and Northern will close from Dec. 23rd to Dec. 27th; the Searle Grain will close from Dec. 30th to Jan. 3rd. The store and post-office will be open at mail time only, Dec. 26th.

The correspondent regrets that Mrs. A. Beckett was not mentioned last week among those contributing to the music for the school dance and to the enjoyment of the evening.

Guy Sargeant of Clive arrived Wednesday and is renewing acquaintances in this district.

The Christmas concert at Greenshields school Thursday afternoon, Dec. 22nd, promises to be very interesting.

About 50 young people of Trafalgar, Gerald and Greenshields districts gathered at the hall Friday evening and enjoyed a merry dance.

Quite a number in this district are still ill with severe colds or flu, and we wish them a speedy recovery.

Miss Campbell's Recipe for Cup Cakes.

1/4 cup butter 2 cups penny flour (or 1 1/4 cups bread flour)
1 cup sugar 3 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla 3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
1/4 teaspoon salt 1 cup milk

Cream butter thoroughly; add sugar a little at a time, beating well. Add yolks of eggs and vanilla; beat well. Sift flour with baking powder and salt, and add, alternately with milk, to first mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in greased cup cake tin, or in paper baking cups, in moderate oven at 375° F. about 25 minutes. Serve warm from the oven, sprinkled with powdered sugar. Or cool, and frost the tops. You will find many delicious frosting recipes in the Magic Cook Book.

"Cup Cakes are delicious when made with Magic Baking Powder,"

says Miss Helen Campbell,
Director of
The Chetelaine Institute

"Good baking goes hand in hand with good materials," Miss Campbell will tell you.

That's why Magic Baking Powder is used and recommended by The Chetelaine Institute. Magic meets all the Institute's rigid requirements of fine quality—repeated tests have proved it absolutely pure, uniform and dependable.

The majority of dietitians and teachers of cookery throughout Canada plan their recipes for Magic. They use it exclusively because they know it gives consistently better results.

And 3 out of 4 Canadian housewives say Magic is their favorite. It outsells all other baking powders combined.

Remember—substitutes are never as good. Do as the experts do. Use Magic Baking Powder.

FISH—HOT AND COLD

Fish is one of the oldest foods known. It is quite possible there was a clear stream running through the Garden of Eden and that Adam himself learned how to lure a finny tit-bit from its cool depths. At any rate, fish has been eaten by all races of which we have a record.

Yet even today, fish is not always prepared as it should be. Somehow or other it is so easy to fry a piece of fish a minute or so before dinner, that many of us have gotten into this habit and have forgotten that fish of all kinds may be served in many other attractive ways.

Furthermore, a little care in seasoning fish should be given. It is not enough to depend upon salt or butter if you are anxious to develop the most desirable flavor. Sugar as fish cookery is recommended by many of our most skillful cooks. This is by no means to be used as a sweetener, but a touch of sugar seems to blend the various flavors without noticeably sweetening them. Of course, sugar is a quick-energy food and even a little is particularly desirable in a dish that is to be consumed during the cold weather months.

It is probably unnecessary to tell the average housewife how to fry a fish purchased from her local dealer or even when caught by the little Isaac Walton in her home who finds a nearby stream or lake particularly attractive. But women will be interested in unusual fish dishes such as those that may be served in molded form or a chowder to be served hot as the main dish on Friday.

Here are two particularly attractive recipes for fish dishes. Try them and you will have a new respect for our finny friends.

Fish Chowder

1 1/2 pounds fish
4 potatoes
1 onion, chopped
2 cups diced carrots
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 pound salt pork
2 cups milk

Crackers

Cod or haddock is the kind of fish generally preferred for chowder but any kind of fresh, dried, or canned fish will do if it has large flakes of meat and only a few bones, which can be easily picked out before the fish is combined with the other ingredients.

Cut the salt pork in small pieces and fry with the chopped onion for five minutes. Put pork, onions, carrots, potatoes, and sugar in a kettle and cover with boiling water. Cook until the vegetables are tender. Add milk and fish which has been removed from the bones and cut in small pieces. Cook until the fish is tender, or for about 10 minutes.

Add eight or nine good sized crackers to the chowder a few minutes before serving.

Fish Christine

2 eggs
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2 cups minced fish

Beat the eggs, add the seasoning, the vinegar, and water and cook over boiling water until thickened. Soften the gelatin in cold water and add to the hot dressing. Then add the fish. Place in individual molds or one large one. Let stand in a cold place until firmly set. Serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise.

MORE ECONOMY DISHES

Times are better but economy dishes are still in order in many homes. Here are two timely recipes. The first shows a thrifty way to serve chicken to a crowd by using crackers as an extender. The second recipe is for a Southern dish that may be served in place of meat.

Chicken a la King en Casserole
6 1/4 cups flake soda crackers
5 cups Chicken a la King
1 qt. milk
1 1/2 cup butter
Crumble crackers, and put half of them in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Cover with Chicken a la King, and cover chicken with remainder of crackers. Add milk and dot with butter. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) until well browned, 25 portions.

Shredded Wheat Creole
6 shredded wheat biscuit
3 cups hot meat stock
2 tablespoons bacon fat
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 eggs
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
2 tablespoons minced green pepper

Crumble shredded wheat biscuit and cook until thick in boiling meat stock. Mix with bacon fat, onion pepper, beaten egg yolks, seasoning, and catsup. Fold into a buttered baking dish and bake (30 minutes) in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Serve hot with grilled tomatoes. 6 portions.

FRUIT PUNCH FOR A CROWD
(Makes about 4 gallons—40 large glasses, 120 small)
2 quarts sugar
1 quart water
2 quarts tea infusion
1 quart lemon juice
1 quart orange juice
1 quart grape juice
1 quart grated pineapple
1 cup strawberry slices
2 cups fancy orange slices
2 1/2 cups fancy orange slices

Make syrup of sugar and 1 quart water. Make tea infusion by pouring 2 quarts (.8 cups) boiling water over 5 tablespoons tea. Cool. Combine syrup, tea, fruit juices and water. Add strawberry slices and orange slices, which may be cut in fancy shapes or simply halved or quartered.

Punch may be strained before adding strawberry and orange slices but this will lessen quantity made. Less water may be used and punch poured over block of ice in punch bowl. When strawberries are out of season the strawberry slices may be replaced by another cup of orange slices. Recipe may be halved or quartered to serve a smaller group.

Editors Note: We accept no responsibility whatever for views expressed under this heading.

THIS MACHINE AGE

The Editor—

Dear Sir:—Machinery is King. It dominates our lives from their very beginning to their end, and beyond. Our first yell—given before we know how much there is in the world to yell over—is not silenced before we are wrapped in clothing prepared by the machine. We are put into a machine-made cradle; with our first breaths, fed machine-milk, machine-pasteurized, machine-bottled and machine-delivered-milk, heated on a machine-made stove, burning machine-produced fuel.

With the first dawn of consciousness, we begin to distinguish between the universe that is not I, and the latter is controlled and dominated by the machine, until the machine that is I—heretofore the result of the past environment of the race or heredity—becomes a part of the present environment of a machine-dominated world.

In a few years we pass through all the phases of the evolution of the race and reach the stage where everything is changed in the environment of the machine and machine-production. We go to schools—also machine-made—where we are taught or assimilate the department of a machine-produced and machine-controlled civilization, and the knowledge which prepares us to become citizens of a machine-ruled society.

When we enter industry as workers the environment of the machine which has unconsciously dominated us in the past, becomes the conscious arbiter of all our activities. Our thoughts are machine—not tool—thoughts; our living machines of flesh and blood are meshed into the cogs of the machines of steel and iron; our pace is set by these tireless auxiliaries of production.

Our lives are lived under machine control, as though these lives were themselves stamped out by the machine. Our thoughts are based on the messages that come to us from our five senses. Our experiences are experiences of the machine off-tau-job; our recreations are largeley machine-made; our foods are machine-products; our time is not ours—it is measured out to us by machine-made alarm clocks and the shrills of machine made whistles. The seven ages of man are all ages of machines, ruled directly or indirectly by the machine.

We become sick. We go to machine-produced hospitals—our spittum is tested; our heart-beats and respiration are made audible by a machine; our blood pressure is tested by a machine; our bones are photographed by a machine. We are given machine-made drugs, and machine-made diets. We get well and go back to the machine, which in the larger sense we have never left—or we die, and death ends all. But does it? It does not end the domination of the machine. We are put into a machine-made coffin; we are rushed to the graveyard in a machine; we are lowered into the grave by a machine; our ashes are mixed with the dust by machine-made tools.

Environment being so potent a moulding the thoughts and feelings of man—in contact from birth with the machine-man—indelibly bears its imprints.

So therefore you build the machine. You are a slave of the machine. Unemployment will never be solved until you become master of the machine.

I AM THE FARMER

I am the provider of all mankind. Upon me every human being constantly depends.

A world itself is built upon my toil, my products, my honesty, the world; her prosperity is maintained by me; her great commerce is the work of my good hands; her "balance of trade" springs from the furrows of my farm.

My reaper brings food for today; my plow holds promise for tomorrow. In war I am absolute; in peace I am indispensable—my country's surest defence and constant reliance.

I am the very soul of Canada, the hope of a race, the balance wheel of civilization.

When I prosper, men are happy; when I fail, all the world suffers.

I live with nature, walk in the grain fields under the golden sunlight out in the Great Alone where brain and brawn and toil supply mankind's primary need. And I try to do my humble part to carry out the great plan of God.

Even the birds are my companions; they greet me with a symphony at the new day's work and chum with me 'till the evening prayer is said.

If it were not for me the treasures of the earth would remain securely locked; the granaries would be useless frames; man himself would be doomed speedily to extinction of decay.

Through me is produced the energy that maintains the spark of life.

I rise with the early dawn and retire when the "chores" of the world are done.

I am your true friend.

I am the farmer.—Viking News.

The Rebellion of the Toys

A STORY FOR THE WEE TOTS

The tin soldier walked up and down excitedly while the watch dog barked and the lions and wolves growled in their throats. Everyone talked at once. It was an awful babble for such a wonderful place as Toyland.

An intense stillness fell over the excited toys as the door opened and Santa Claus came in. He looked around confused and bewildered. "My children," he said, "whatever is the matter?"

The tin soldier cocked his gun and looked neither to right nor left. The beauty doll closed her eyes and pretended sleep. The mama doll's cheeks were red with anger. The rocking horse balked and refused to move. They had no greeting for him today.

"But my little ones, I have good news for you," Santa seemed hurt. The tin soldier lowered his gun, touched his cap and stepped in real military fashion. "If it means going away, we don't want to go," he said.

An awful buzz of talk followed his remark. "We aren't going," they said.

"Not going?" Santa Claus questioned. "You can't mean that." He stroked his long white beard. "Why the girls and boys will have no Christmas."

"Why should we worry?" the sleepy beauty doll demanded. "They don't care for us. They break us and throw us away. Why last year a naughty girl broke my sister's head off." She drew out her handkerchief and sobbed into it.

"I don't want to go," the rocking horse said, "they'll break my bones. Besides they're all selfish anyway. Look at their letters."

Santa looked down at the pile of letters he held in his hand.

"But they aren't really selfish," he said, "and they will be disappointed." Tears stood in his kind old eyes. Santa seemed suddenly very old and feeble. The tin soldier felt a tight place in his throat as he watched him. He knew how hard it would be to answer all those letters. He saluted as he opened the door for the old gentleman.

When Santa had gone he turned to the toys. "We are sorry," he said, "but they deserve it. Now to bed, friends. We must not lose our beauty sleep." The toys very subdued, climbed up to their places on the shelves.

The next day they were very restless. The watch dog bit the bear and they quarrelled. The tin soldier had to beat them with the butt of his gun. He tried to interest them in "Hide-and-go-seek" but nobody wanted to play.

In the evening they gathered for their usual dance. The dishes took their place beside the violin and the piano. Usually they had a wily, hilarious time for they knew they would not be together much longer, but Santa did not come out though they watched anxiously for him. Then the sleepy beauty pushed the mama doll and made her fall. The rocking horse crowded the rocking chair. Everybody was cross and cranky so they played the "Home Sweet Home" waltz early. The tin soldier ordered them back to their places.

Morning broke bright and shining. The toys were talking in a whisper when Santa Claus came in with a letter in his hand. His voice trembled as he read about the little girl in the General hospital who wanted a mama doll. She had been lying there for months with her side all paralyzed and she wanted a doll. Would one of the dolls go?

The mama doll swallowed hard and looked at the tin soldier. It was a hard moment. He felt sorry for the little girl, but if one went they would all have to go so he shook his head.

"I think I should have gone," the mama doll whispered to the beauty doll.

"She'd probably get cross and throw you down. Remember your weak side," answered the beauty.

But it worried them. They dreamt of the little girl in the hospital, of the good and bad girls and boys everywhere. Besides Christmas was near at hand.

At last they could stand it no longer and called a meeting. It was decided that the watch dog should go to the edge of Toyland and see for himself what was actually happening. He went on the electric train. When it brought him back at night he was dusty and dirty. He greeted them

SAFETY FIRST

"Safety First" is a popular slogan. One safety message is to take care of small cuts and scratches. Why? Because, if these are neglected, germs may get in and cause serious infections.

"Safety First" is not limited to accidents. It is equally important to keep germs from gaining entrance to the body through the mouth as it is to keep them from penetrating the broken skin.

"Safety First" is the guiding principle of every health officer. This is particularly true as regards the protection of public milk supplies. We want milk that is of good quality. Quality is, however, of minor importance as compared with the safety of the milk which we are to consume.

What satisfaction is there in having a milk that is rich in food values and of good flavour if, hidden from our eyes because of their microscopic size, the germs of disease are to be found in it?

The only practical way that is known at present to secure a safe milk supply for a community is to combine inspection and pasteurization. We require inspection to secure as clean a milk as possible from healthy cows, and pasteurization to make this milk safe.

From time to time we hear objections being raised to the use of pasteurized milk on the grounds that the heating of milk destroys much of its food value.

A report has been made recently on a study made of several thousand children to determine if there were any appreciable difference in the height or weight of children fed on heated milk as compared with those fed on raw milk.

There was no significant difference found between the heights and weights of the two groups. The fractional difference was in favour of the group receiving heated milk.

Children do not live on milk alone excepting for the short period when they should be breast-fed. All of the children studied had eaten cereals, vegetables, fruits and meats. The conclusion reached was that, under average living conditions, there is no measurable difference between children using raw and those using heated milk.

"Safety First" would imply the use of milk, but would require that the milk used be safe. There is no reason why anyone should take chances when the safe milk is as good in every other way, and it possesses the added virtue of safety.

Questions concerning Health, so-called to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

with a tired bark.

"What news," they questioned.

He told them of the journey down. He had been frightened as he saw the world far below him. He had looked in every direction. None of the big departmental stores had any decorations. The shelves of the toy sections were yawning like caverns—all bare. There were sad children everywhere.

Just a few days until Christmas and no toys. It was rumored that there wouldn't be any Christmas. He had seen them talking about it on street corners instead of playing. There were no merry laughs and smiles any more. Santa Claus was not coming.

The tin soldier coughed and said from behind his hand, "They are only getting what they deserve." The toys said nothing.

The watch dog continued, "I was looking into a big store when John Wilson came in. He was a poor thin little fellow with red hair. His clothes were ragged and he looked cold. I could see he was clutching something in his hand. He went searching down the long aisles looking at the bare shelves. At last he found a clerk.

"Aren't there any sleeping dolls?" he asked.

"None," said the clerk. "We haven't any dolls."

"But I want a doll for my sister," John continued. "She's sick."

"I'm sorry," said the clerk again, "but we haven't any."

John went out with his face all screwed up to keep from crying.

The toys cleared their throats and turned with one accord to the tin soldier. He looked gravely at the beautiful doll. He knew what would happen; her beauty would be marred, her loveliness gone forever. Then he said in a husky voice "It is for Beauty to decide, but I would hate to see the little boy disappointed."

The beauty doll half laughed and half cried, "Oh, I'll go gladly. There's nothing I'd like better."

"And I'll go to the little girl in the hospital," said the mama doll.

Santa Claus entered quietly. He stared in amazement. They were all laughing and crying.

"We want to go down after all," they chorused.

Santa's face beamed. The tin soldier told him what the watch dog had seen. "We are going," he concluded, "even though we end in the gutter."

Santa got his big pack and shouted to a brownie to harness his reindeer. The toys tumbled in, one and all. The tin soldier brought up in the rear.

"I wonder," said Santa smiling, "if John Wilson wouldn't like a tin soldier."

A great weight was lifted from the heart of the tin soldier as he snuggled down with the toys in the great pack.
